SCARBOROUGH SECURITIES CORPORATION

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31, 2003

1 Significant accounting policies

Organization

Scarborough Securities Corporation (the "Company") was incorporated under the laws of the State of New York on June 10, 1997, and commenced operations on February 4, 1998. During 1998, the Company registered as a broker-dealer pursuant to Section 15(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. The Company concentrates its business activities as a broker of variable life insurance policies and annuity contracts. The Company, which is a member of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. ("NASD"), carries no customer funds or securities and therefore is exempt from Rule 15c3-3 of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Income taxes

The Company, with the consent of its shareholder, has elected under the Internal Revenue Code to be taxed as an S corporation for federal income tax purposes. In lieu of corporation income taxes, the shareholders of an S corporation are generally taxed on their proportionate share of the Company's taxable income. Therefore, no provision or liability for income taxes has been included in the accompanying financial statements. A similar election has also been made for New York State purposes.

The Company has elected the cash basis of accounting for Federal and New York State income tax purposes.

Revenue recognition

Revenue, which consists principally of commissions on variable life insurance policies and annuity contracts, is recognized when earned and no longer subject to renegotiation or refund.

Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the year. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

2 Net capital requirements

The Company is subject to the Securities and Exchange Commission's Uniform Net Capital Rule (15c3-1), which requires the maintenance of minimum net capital and requires that the ratio of aggregate indebtedness to net capital, both as defined, shall not exceed 15:1. The rule also provides that capital may not be withdrawn or cash dividends paid if the resulting ratio would exceed 10:1. At December 31, 2003, the Company had net capital of $10,367, which was $5,367 in excess of its required minimum net capital of $5,000.

3 Related party transactions

Alliance is the insurance agency licensed by the various states in which the Company conducts business and, as required by state insurance law, is responsible for the billing and collection of the commission revenue earned by the Company. The Company pays Alliance a commission for its services. All of the Company's commissions receivable is due from Alliance.

The Company occupies office space and utilizes personnel and services provided by Alliance as part of its commission agreement with Alliance as described above. The financial condition and results of operations of the Company, as reported, are not necessarily indicative of the results that would have been reported had the Company operated completely independently.

Board of Directors and Shareholder
Scarborough Securities Corporation

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON INTERNAL CONTROL REQUIRED BY RULE 17a-5 OF THE SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements and supplemental schedules of Scarborough Securities Corporation (the "Company") for the year ended December 31, 2003, we considered its internal control, control activities for safeguarding securities, in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on internal control.

Also, as required by rule 17a-5(g)(1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), we have made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Company including tests of such practices and procedures that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in Rule 17a-5(g) in making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness (or aggregate debits) and net capital under Rule 17a-3(11) for determining compliance with the exemptive provisions of Rule 15c3-3. Because the Company does not carry securities accounts for customers or perform custodial functions relating to customer securities, we did not review the practices and procedures followed by the Company in any of the following:

1. Making quarterly securities examinations, counts, verifications and comparisons
2. Recordation of differences required by rule 17a-3
3. Complying with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under Section 8 of Federal Reserve Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining internal control structure and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of controls and of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the SEC above-mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of an internal control and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable but not absolute assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Hays & Company^{LLP}

Because of inherent limitations in an internal control or the practices and procedures referred to above, error or fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

Our consideration of the internal control would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be considered material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of the specific internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that error or fraud in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, we noted no matters involving the internal control, including control activities for safeguarding securities, that we consider to be a material weakness as defined above.

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the SEC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on our study, we believe that the Company's practices and procedures were adequate at December 31, 2003 to meet the SEC's objectives.

This report recognizes that it is not practicable in an organization the size of the Company to achieve all the divisions of duties and cross-checks generally included in a system of internal accounting control, and that, alternatively, greater reliance must be placed on surveillance by management.

This report is intended solely for the use of Board of Directors, management, the SEC and other regulatory agencies that rely on Rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in their regulation of registered brokers and dealers, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
